Air India preventable, inquiry finds

Report blames government, security for 'series of errors'

Authorities should have known that Air India Flight 182 was a likely terrorist target, a damning report on the deadly 1985 bombing concludes.

The long-awaited report, released Thursday, blames a "cascading series of errors" by government, RCMP and CSIS for the failure to prevent the disaster that killed 329 people. Former Supreme Court justice John Major, who headed a painstaking inquiry into the case, says agencies were not prepared for the threat of terror attacks in 1985 — and holes in the country's security systems still need plugging.

"The level of error, incompetence and inattention which took place before the flight was sadly mirrored in many ways for many years, in how authorities, governments and institutions dealt with the aftermath of the murder of so many innocents," Major says in a five-volume report.

His No. 1 recommendation is beefed-up powers for the national security adviser to set security policies and priorities, and oversee communication between agencies. He also calls for compensation for the families of the victims.

The report was delivered 25 years, almost to the day, after the worst terrorist attack in Canadian history. It comes after nearly four years of work by Major.

25 years ago

- Air India Flight 182, bound from Toronto and Montreal to New Delhi, was brought down over the Irish Sea on June 23, 1985, by a terrorist bomb stowed in a luggage compartment. There were no survivors among 329 people on board.
- Another two people died the same day when a second bomb went off in baggage being transferred to another Air India flight in Narita, Japan.
- Both attacks were blamed on Sikh militants based in B.C.

150 job cuts, 10 possible school closures in VSB budget

PLAN School closures, the elimination of more than 150 full-time positions and program cancellations are some of the cuts planned by the Vancouver School Board (VSB) to balance its budget, the organization's chairwoman said Thursday.

Patti Bacchus also added that many of the recommendations the board was told to follow were already being considered.

Margaret MacDiarmid, B.C.'s education minister, has accused the VSB of not managing its budget well after it forecast a $17-million shortfall. She told the board to follow the recommendations in a scathing report released earlier this month by B.C.'s comptroller-general Cheryl Wenezenki-Yolland and submit a balanced budget by Friday.

"I asked which specific recommendations would be best for the kids," Bacchus said. "But she (Wenezenki-Yolland) just said to 'read it again, it's in there.'"

Bacchus added most of the cuts are not anticipated to take effect in the fall, but the increases in rental rates for use of school property are.

The list of roughly 10 potential school closures will be announced later this month, with closures to begin in June 2011.

A $1.5-million shortfall is still left. The board proposes transferring money from the Local Capital Reserve to make up for it.

New stadium set to welcome fans

Outdoor venue at Empire Fields hosting Lions-Eskimos tilt

JEFF HODSON
jeff.hodson@metronews.ca

Almost two decades after the demolition of Empire Stadium, a new temporary stadium opens this weekend on the grounds of the storied venue.

The $14-million, 27,500-seat and yet unnamed stadium hosts its inaugural event Sunday when the B.C. Lions take on the Edmonton Eskimos in their second of two pre-season games.

Dylan Tomlin, a Lions fan who toured the stadium last weekend, said he was excited at the prospect of watching the Lions outdoors in an intimate setting.

"Getting a glimpse last Sunday was great," Tomlin said. "But seeing the players on the field and realizing how close and intimate the atmosphere is going to be will be something special."

The stadium will be the home of the Lions and Whitecaps while a new retractable roof is fitted on B.C. Place.

JEFF HODSON/METRO VANCOUVER

B.C. Lions fans check out the temporary stadium at Empire Fields last Sunday while crews groom the field turf.

Howard Crosley, general manager of B.C. Place, said fans for the most part will be happy with the temporary facility.

"We always hope for nice weather," said Crosley, who will be attending the game as a fan. "But it is Vancouver. We expect that there may be a rainy game or two, but I think people are up for it."

Diane Douglas, secretary of the Lion Backers fan club, grew up on outdoor football in Saskatchewan.

"Everything is very close," said Douglas, who also toured the stadium last week. "You don't feel so far away from the players and what's happening on the field."

A look back at the old Empire

HISTORY Empire Stadium, original home of the B.C. Lions and Vancouver Whitecaps, opened in 1954 for the British Empire and Commonwealth Games.

The games became famous for the "miracle mile" as two men, John Landy and Roger Bannister, broke the four-minute mark in the one-mile race.

A statue of the historic event stands at the entrance to the PNE at Renfrew and Hastings streets.

The stadium was home to the Lions from 1954 to 1982 and the Whitecaps from 1974 to 1983. Both teams moved to the brand-new B.C. Place in 1983. Empire was demolished in 1993. METRO VANCOUVER

Ahead of schedule

- Dismantling of the old B.C. Place roof finished ahead of schedule, general manager Howard Crosley said. Crews are now erecting a 465-foot tower crane to begin construction of the new roof.

Bomb causes minor damage at school

WEST A small explosion that caused some minor damage to a West Vancouver school Thursday morning is being investigated by police.

A homemade device damaged a door near the main entrance of West Vancouver Secondary School.

The door remained secure but buildings on the south campus were evacuated as a precaution while police undertook the investigation.

Students are no longer in regular session at the school, and no exam schedules were affected.

Long-awaited Dziekanski report to be released

BRAIDWOOD The many people who encountered Robert Dziekanski the night he died, from Vancouver airport and customs staff to the four RCMP officers who stunned him with a Taser, are about to receive a very public report card.

The inquiry that spent much of last year hearing evidence about Dziekanski's October 2007 death will release a final report on Friday, offering a full account of what happened while making recommendations to prevent future tragedies.

The highly anticipated document will evaluate the performance of nearly everyone who had any contact with Dziekanski in the nearly 10 hours he spent in Vancouver's airport before his death.

Most anticipated will be inquiry commissioner Thomas Braidwood's comments on the actions of the four RCMP officers who confronted Dziekanski and shocked him within seconds of their arrival.

The officers all testified at the inquiry, saying that they were justified in using the Taser because Dziekanski had picked up a stapler and they felt threatened.

There's nothing like the thrill of the chase to draw spectators to the 22nd edition of the Rio Tinto Alcan Dragon Boat Festival. But as lung transplant recipient Britta Watts explains, there's more to the event than the excitement of competition.

KYLE FARQUHARSON/FOR METRO VANCOUVER

Three junior teams practise Thursday in False Creek ahead of the Rio Tinto Alcan Dragon Boat Festival this weekend.

"(My teammates and I) are trying to do our very, very best in terms of time ... but our main goal is to raise awareness of organ donation," said Watts, who encourages everyone to fill out an organ donor card. Several members of her crew have received life-saving transplants, and they paddle to show their gratitude.

The Gift Of Life Transplant Team is one of 140 taking part in the festival as 27-member squads. Nearly 4,000 athletes, split by competitive and recreational divisions, will break waves in False Creek this Saturday and Sunday. Some paddle to bring attention to a cause, while others compete to eventually move on to a World Championship.

But there's plenty to see and do apart from the races, the event organizers say.

Festivities will open with a Blessing Ceremony on Friday: the "Awakening of the Dragons," with priests from the Evergreen Taoist Church.

The World Beat Stage will showcase contemporary music from around the world starting at 11 a.m., and food from the Spice Islands will be served.

There will also be an Aluminum Chef cooking competition on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, and activities for children.

Langley man's body found after storm struck mountain

MOUNT HOOD Rescue crews have recovered the body of a 58-year-old Langley man killed while climbing Mount Hood in Oregon State.

Officers with the Hood River County Sheriff's department say Robert Wiebe fell to his death on Tuesday when a sudden storm moved in.

Bad weather prevented attempts to recover Wiebe's body until Thursday, when crews retrieved it more than 210 metres below the location from where he fell.

Sheriff Joe Wampler says no one was injured during the recovery mission and the man's body will be returned to his family.

Wiebe was described as an experienced climber travelling with a group of four others who were intending to ski down the north side of Mount Hood, 500 kilometres south of Vancouver.

Det. Matt English says the squall was so sudden the group didn't have time to rope up, and by the time others in the party realized what had happened, Wiebe could not be saved.

Abbotsford's first 'Con Air' flight lifts off

CORRECTIONS The first flight for Abbotsford Police's "Con Air" relocation program departed Thursday morning with two people on board, bound for Edmonton.

The program will use commercial flights, except in situations where the risk would be too great, and the expense of the seats will be paid by the Abbotsford Police Department.

"The program is based on reciprocal relationships with other communities and the co-ordinated efforts of law enforcement with a view to ensure that individuals are held accountable for their actions despite their relocation to other parts of Canada," Const. Ian McDonald said in a statement.

The program should make suspects think twice about fleeing their jurisdiction to escape parole or warrants, police said.

There are more than 100 individuals living in Abbotsford that are eligible to be part of this program.

Victoria cousins score Lotto Max prize on the way to Vegas

WIN A pair of Victoria men who got lucky on their way to Las Vegas collected their $1-million Lotto Max prize on Thursday.

The cousins, Travis Fritz and Kurt Jankowski, were headed to Vancouver International Airport to board a flight for Sin City when they decided to stop at the River Rock Casino Resort.

The men, both aged 22, bought a Lotto Max ticket for the $50-million jackpot and 27 additional $1-million prizes.

While no one won the grand prize, the duo were one of three B.C. ticket holders to win $1 million. No one won the top prize for the second consecutive week.

Victoria residents Travis Fritz, left, and Kurt Jankowski pick up their $1-million Lotto Max at BCLC's Richmond office on Thursday.

"We figured if we lost all our money in Vegas we could return home and still have a chance to win big," said Jankowski, a student.

"We came back empty so our back-up plan definitely paid off," said Fritz, who works as a catering attendant.

He refused to believe they had won when Jankowski called him after checking the ticket in Victoria. "Travis hung up on me twice," he said. "I finally had to go over to his place and show him the ticket before he would believe me! Now we're looking at investments."

Car-free days gain momentum

JEFF HODSON
jeff.hodson@metronews.ca

The city's annual celebration of public space has grown again.

Car-Free Vancouver, which will be held on Commercial Drive, Main Street, Kitsilano and the West End, has expanded across the water to North Vancouver.

"It has been growing every year," said Craig Ollenberger, a co-ordinator with Car-Free Commercial Drive.

"The attendance has been growing, as well as the number of sites and the scale of the sites."

The festival began in Vancouver on Commercial Drive in 2005. Organizers expect a quarter-million people will hit the streets for this year's festivals.

"It's a celebration of local — local business, local people, local culture."

The idea behind the day, Ollenberger said, is viewing streets for something other than just cars.

Last year, Vancouver implemented Summer Spaces, a series of smaller car-free festivals in four neighbourhoods. The program that ran Sundays through July and August is on hiatus until 2011.

What's on — Sunday, noon-6 p.m.

- Commercial Drive: From Venables Street to First Avenue, will feature street hockey, performances, artisans, and a healing garden.
- Main Street: Between 16th and 33rd Avenue, will have skateboard demos and the Terminal City Roller Derby.
- West End: Denman Street will have a spoken word tent and square dancing lessons.
- Kitsilano: More than 25 block parties, with dances performers and potlucks.
- North Vancouver: Lonsdale Avenue between 3rd Street and Esplanade Street features a beach theme.

Medallist calls it quits

PARALYMPIAN Just a few months after dominating the 2010 Paralympics, skier Lauren Woolstencroft has decided to retire.

The 28-year-old from North Vancouver won five gold medals at the Vancouver Games.

"Winning all five events was beyond my expectations," she said. "To do it at a home Games, in front of friends and family, was way more than I can ever describe.

"That was the pinnacle."

Only 28, Woolstencroft debated racing until the 2014 Paralympics in Sochi, Russia.

"There is part of me that thought about keeping going," she said.

"I am skiing well. It's not like I'm over the hill and washed up."

Top soldier now lost in bowels of Ottawa

Hands off

- Canadian Forces rules make it an offence for a member of the military to kiss, caress or hold hands with another member while in uniform in public.

Brig.-Gen. Dan Ménard's professional downfall is proving to be precipitous.

Less than a month ago, he was leading some 2,800 Canadian soldiers in Afghanistan.

Then he was removed from command after allegations the married father was having a relationship with a subordinate in Kandahar.

And now he has been reassigned to a job deep in the bowels of National Defence headquarters in Ottawa.

He will now oversee the creation of a computerized personnel management system for the military while he awaits an investigation into his actions — which could lead to charges under the National Defence Act and a court martial.

Canadian Forces personal relationships and fraternization rules are designed to prevent unfair or special treatment within the chain of command.

The decision, announced Thursday, is one of the last ones to be made by Lt.-Gen. Andrew Leslie, the outgoing head of the army, who is moving on to become chief of military transformation, assessing and transitioning the forces after a decade in Afghanistan.

Future looks rosy for Wildrose

POLITICS Alberta's surging opposition Wildrose Alliance Party will debate whether it should soften its hardline stance on unions, fight for a new provincial police force, and give students more clout and say in their education.

The three resolutions are among more than 40 motions that will be debated by some 400 delegates when Wildrose members convene for the party's annual general meeting at a hotel in Red Deer June 25 and 26.

Party Leader Danielle Smith says she has no concerns about fighting for whatever resolutions are passed.

"I think you'll find that most of those policies are reflective of what a lot of average Albertans want to see their government do," said Smith Thursday.

Despite having just three members in the legislature, the party has become the main challenger to Premier Ed Stelmach's Progressive Conservatives.

"Try not to change your way of life," he said on Thursday.

"Just live the same life, have the same friends, do the same things, don't try to change everything.

"If you change everything, you're going to miss a lot along the way."

G(irls)20 envoy aims to be the 'voice of hope'

Girls from all the G20 countries are gathering in Toronto this week for the first G(irls)20 Summit to show what the world would be like if they were in charge.

The summit is part of an international campaign called 3.3 Billion Ways, which is led by the Belinda Stronach Foundation. Metro Canada asked participants about how they think the world's greatest challenges can best be solved.

Here's Nomathemba Sibanyoni, 19, of South Africa.

Q What do you believe are the biggest challenges for women and girls in your country?

A Teenage pregnancy under poverty conditions. Leaders can encourage and assure the enhancement, availability and implementation of educational workshops and campaigns especially targeting disadvantaged areas like rural areas and farms.

Q What do you do to help the lives of girls and women in your community, your country?

A I engage myself in various social empowerment projects, including writing and presenting poems and speeches in issues related to women, I become their voices of hope by also promoting education.

Q How do you think we can improve maternal health worldwide?

A I believe that certain diseases are preventable, provided people know the necessary precautions that have to be taken. In a global sense, maternal health problems can be prevented and cured by raising health awareness campaigns, that mainly focus on teaching people especially women about all issues related to it.

Q How can we eradicate extreme poverty and hunger worldwide?

A Agriculture and proper land management is the best possible solution that can be implemented and be moderated for communities who are attacked by extreme poverty and hunger.

Suncor's giant oilsands cleanup gets Alberta OK

MINING Alberta's energy regulator has given its thumbs-up to Suncor Energy Inc's plan to handle waste from its massive oilsands operations near Fort McMurray, Alta.

"This is great news and a significant milestone in addressing one of the greatest reclamation challenges in oilsands mining," said Kirk Bailey, Suncor's executive VP of oilsands.

Suncor's plan is the third to be approved since the province's Energy Resources Conservation Board ordered oilsands miners to clean up their tailings ponds — enormous lakes water, clay, sand and bitumen left behind after crude has been extracted.

Calgary-based Suncor, Canada's largest energy company, plans to invest more than $1 billion on technology to shorten the time it takes for fine clay particles to settle.

In the past, it has taken several decades for mature fine tailings to separate.

But in Suncor's Tailings Reduction Operations, or TRO, process, the substance dries out in a matter of weeks. Vegetation can then be planted over the dry material.

"This is great news and a significant milestone in addressing one of the greatest reclamation challenges in oilsands mining."
Kirk Bailey, Suncor executive VP

Tailings ponds gained worldwide notoriety in 2008, when 1,600 waterfowl died after landing on a giant lake at Syncrude 's oilsands mine.

The ERCB estimates tailings ponds contain about 840 million cubic metres of fluid and cover about 170 square kilometres.

The regulator is still reviewing plans for Royal Dutch Shell's Albian Sands mine, as well as projects operated by Canadian Natural Resources, Imperial Oil and Shell Canada.

Jaffer thumbed his nose at us, MPs complain

INQUIRY Rahim Jaffer's attempt to convince a Commons committee his business dealings were above board has angered MPs of all stripes.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's a liar," said Bloc Québécois MP Michel Guimond.

"I'm sure — I don't think — I'm sure he was illegally lobbying."

Members of the government operations committee said Thursday they believe Jaffer has been thumbing his nose at their work.

MPs spent their final morning before the summer break pressing the ex-MP on whether he illegally lobbied Conservative officials to back a series of renewable energy ventures.

The Speaker of the House will rule in the fall if Jaffer breached the privileges of Parliament.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's a liar."
MP Michel Guimond

Jaffer's wife, Helena Guergis, was ousted from the Tory caucus in April.

Jaffer vented his frustration vehemently:

"The way my wife has been treated … doesn't represent anything that I've ever seen.

"The prime minister called a process to say that she could clear her name, and then proceeds to kick her out of the party. You call that democracy?

"I don't understand, I don't even recognize this party anymore."

The one issue on which all MPs agreed was their feeling they could not trust Jaffer's testimony.

Mixed feelings on report

After 25 years of grieving, Lata Pada was nervous as she waited for the final report from a public inquiry into the Air India bombing.

Pada lost her husband and two daughters when Flight 182 was downed by a bomb on June 23, 1985, and like many victims' family members she spent decades lobbying successive governments for the inquiry.

"It feels almost surreal," she said from Ottawa. Pada was among the family members who met with inquiry commissioner John Major before he summarized his findings.

"When you wait and fight for 25 years it feels very strange to be in a place where this is actually happening," she said.

All 329 passengers and crew died when Flight 182 crashed into the ocean off the coast of Ireland. Two baggage handlers also died in an explosion an hour earlier in Narita, Japan, as they loaded suitcases onto another Air India jet.

Pada, of Mississauga, Ont., said she was grateful for Major's call for an apology to the victims' families for what he deemed a "cascading series of errors" by various agencies both before the bombing and after. "I see the apology as a public acknowledgment, as the government's acknowledgment, of what went wrong and how there is a collective responsibility on the part of the government to address the fact that we, the family members, and the victims, were ignored for all these years and the system had failed us," she said in a telephone interview.

"So hopefully, that apology, if it's forthcoming, will give us a great deal of comfort in recognizing that. But I think the inquiry and the report have gone a long way in addressing that."

FRED CHARTRAND/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lata Pada, a spokesperson for victims of the Air India bombing, closes her eyes during a 2005 news conference in Ottawa, after a recommendation for an inquiry to answer lingering questions about the 1985 Air India bombing. Pata's husband and two daughters were killed in the bombing.

"We were not treated like Canadians."
Rattan Khalsi

Pada said the families will now work to ensure the report, with its many recommendations, doesn't collect dust on a government shelf.

Rattan Khalsi, whose 21-year-old daughter Indira died, said he's grateful Major wants to right the wrongs that led to the pain families have lived with for a quarter of a century.

But he said the report will do nothing for him.

"That pain, the loss of a child, will be the same," Khalsi said from Cambridge, Ont. "It will not help me in any way. But for future generations, yes, whatever John Major recommended, it is a good idea."

Khalsi, 80, also said it's time the families heard an apology. "We were not treated like Canadians," he said, referring to the fact that former prime minister Brian Mulroney offered condolences to the Indian government after the bombings, even though most of the victims were Canadian citizens.

More aboriginal babies die in Manitoba: Study

MORTALITY An extensive study of infant mortality in Manitoba has shown that the death rate for aboriginal babies is more than twice the Canadian average and doesn't improve no matter how close their mothers live to sophisticated health-care facilities.

Although infant mortality among non-aboriginals declined the closer they got to cities, the rate remained stubbornly high for First Nations women, says a new report published in the Journal of Rural Health.

"First Nations infants do not seem to have similarly benefited from the better health-care facilities in urban centres," the report says. "We speculate that access to and effective use of the better health-care facilities available in urban areas may be inadequate for First Nations women and children."

Aussie show mining Quebec town for laughs

WHAT'S IN A NAME? It's tough to attract people to your town when its name reminds them of cancer.

But one of Canada's last remaining asbestos-mining towns is getting international attention from a popular Australian TV reality show that's aiming to help them out.

Sort of.

In its next episode, the show on the Australian Broadcasting Corporation asks two ad execs to design a couple of video ads for the town of Asbestos, Que.

"It is all done in good fun," says Peter Richie, a spokesman for the show, The Gruen Transfer.

The show is named for the condition caused by the response to disorienting advertising.

In the segment, host Wil Anderson asked one of the ad execs if there was ever a moment he considered the task of attracting tourists to Asbestos impossible.

"There were several," Ron Samuel replied dryly.

His ad showed suave and elegantly dressed men wearing nametags like New York, Paris and Rome, all courting women in a speed-dating session.

Then comes Asbestos, looking pale and wearing a beige windbreaker.

Palin ridiculed, again

Remarks on oil spill cleanup derided as erroneous

She's blamed environmentalists for helping cause the catastrophe in the Gulf of Mexico, accused U.S. President Barack Obama of using the oil spill to raise energy prices and urged the White House to contact the Dutch because "they are known for dikes."

"The Dutch ... and the Norwegians. They are known for ... for dikes and for cleaning up water and for dealing with spills."

Sarah Palin, after erroneously saying the Obama administration is refusing cleanup help from foreign governments.

Sarah Palin — the guiding light of the foundering Tea Party movement whose energy mantra is "drill, baby, drill" — is back in the U.S. spotlight in the midst of the worst environmental disaster in American history. And Democrats are likely grateful for it.

Even Bill O'Reilly of Fox News, the cable news giant that gave the self-styled hockey mom her own show and frequently uses her as a commentator, seemed taken aback earlier this week when he interviewed the rambling Palin following Obama's address to the nation about the spill.

He pressed the former Alaska governor, considered well-versed in energy issues, to explain what she'd do to plug the gusher several kilometres beneath the surface of the Gulf of Mexico that's defied all human efforts to stop it for the past two months.

"The Dutch," said Palin, who insisted the Obama administration was refusing help from foreign governments.

"They are known, and the Norwegians. They are known for ... for dikes and for cleaning up water and for dealing with spills."

In fact, it was noted following her interview, many foreign nations are contributing to the efforts to combat the gusher, including the Norwegians and the Dutch — although in the early days of the spill, when oil giant BP was wildly underestimating the extent of the spill, their offer to help was declined.

"There are foreign vessels out there right now," Ken Wells, president of the Offshore Marine Services Association, said recently. Reports to the contrary, Wells added, are "misleading and misinformed."

Both men were with Clinton at a news conference in Port-au-Prince to announce the fund. Money from the fund will be loaned to Haitian businesses that otherwise might not have access to capital in a nation that was already desperately poor before the earthquake that killed an estimated 300,000 people and destroyed about 105,000 homes.

Men convicted for using children in sex club to get new trials

TEXAS Two men accused of grooming children as young as five to perform in sex shows at a small-town swinger's club in Texas will get new trials after a state appeals court Thursday found errors in their original proceedings.

The convictions of Patrick (Booger Red) Kelly, 43, and Jamie Pittman, 38, were overturned by a Court of Appeals in Houston. A jury convicted Kelly in 2008 of engaging in organized criminal activity. Pittman was convicted of aggravated sexual assault of a child. Both were sentenced to life in prison.

Authorities allege Kelly helped set up a "kindergarten" where young children learned to dance provocatively at the so-called Mineola Swinger's Club. To help them perform, prosecutors said the children were given Vicodin-like drugs the adults passed off as "silly pills."

Kelly has maintained his innocence. The three-judge appeals panel agreed Thursday with his contention that he was not allowed to present a complete defence.

Dozens of miners missing after deadly blast

COLOMBIA Relatives held a resigned vigil Thursday outside a coal mine in northwestern Colombia where dozens of miners were trapped and feared dead after an explosion that killed at least 16 workers.

The fiery blast at the San Fernando mine, believed caused by a methane gas buildup, tore through an access tunnel that is some two kilometres long and drops to a depth of 150 metres. Officials said there were 70 to 80 workers in the mine at the time.

Provincial disaster coordinator John Rendon said the Wednesday night blast collapsed part of the tunnel.

But Antioquia state mining secretary Nicolas Lopez said rescue workers who had been able to get 700 metres into the tunnel and had found it intact.

The tunnel has cement-reinforced steel arches, he said, but high levels of methane and carbon monoxide were impeding the entry of rescue workers down to extraction areas where most of the trapped workers were believed located.

A shift change was in progress when the explosion occurred, officials said, adding that two injured workers managed to escape.

"I felt the explosion and it lifted me up. I felt the flames on me," a surviving miner said from a hospital bed where he was recovering from burns.

400,000 displaced in Central Asia; refugees tell of children being sexually assaulted

Some 400,000 people have been displaced by ethnic violence in southern Kyrgyzstan, the United Nations announced Thursday, dramatically increasing the official estimate of a crisis that has left throngs of desperate, fearful refugees without enough food and water in grim camps along the Uzbek border.

ALEXANDER ZEMLIANICHENKO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Children are seen through a bus window Thursday as they leave the southern Kyrgyz city of Osh.

Ethnic Uzbeks interviewed by Associated Press journalists in the main regional city of Osh said ethnic Kyrgyz men had sexually assaulted and beaten more than 10 Uzbek women and girls, including some pregnant women, and children as young as 12, on a single street during the rampages that erupted last week.

Resident Matlyuba Akramova showed journalists a 16-year-old relative who appeared to be in a state of shock, and said she had been hiding in the attic as Kyrgyz mobs beat her father in their home in the Cheryomushki neighbourhood. At some point, Akramova said, the girl came downstairs to bandage her father's head and another group of attackers noticed her and sexually assaulted her in front of her father.

Members of the Kyrgyz community have denied accusations of brutality and have accused Uzbek of raping Kyrgyz women.

Eyewitnesses and experts say many Kyrgyz were killed in the unrest between the majority Kyrgyz population and minority ethnic Uzbeks. But the majority of victims appear to have been predominantly Uzbeks, traditional farmers and traders who speak a distinct but separate Turkic language and have traditionally been more prosperous than the Kyrgyz, who come from a nomadic tradition.

New morning-after pill closer to market

PHARMACEUTICALS U.S. government health experts said Thursday a new type of morning-after contraceptive that works longer than existing drugs is safe and effective.

The Food and Drug Administration's panel of reproductive health experts voted unanimously that the pill ellaOne successfully reduces the chance of pregnancy up to five days after sex. Plan B, the most widely used emergency contraceptive pill, is only effective if women take it within three days of sex.

In a separate vote the panel unanimously ruled that the drug appeared safe, according to an FDA spokeswoman.

The positive recommendation moves the pill, which is already approved in Europe, one step closer to the U.S. market.

The FDA is not required to follow the panel's advice, though it often does. Studies by the drug's manufacturer, HRA Pharma, showed ellaOne prevented pregnancies longer and more consistently than Plan B.

Experts tracked nearly 1,700 women who received emergency contraception within three to five days of having unprotected sex.

UN official urges fight against organized crime

NEW YORK The UN drug and crime czar warned Thursday that international crime syndicates pose a growing threat to global security and called for a new campaign to disrupt the markets for their illicit goods and activities in the U.S. and other rich nations.

Antonio Maria Costa told a high-level General Assembly meeting that demand for illegal drugs, diamonds and other items is fueling transnational organized crime and while arresting some traffickers may divert the flow of goods it will not shut them off.

"Therefore, in order to more effectively fight organized crime, we must shift focus from disrupting the mafias to disrupting their markets," he said.

"We must also crack down on the accomplices of crime, like the army of white-collar criminals — lawyers, accountants, realtors and bankers — who cover them up and launder their proceeds."

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said the threat from transnational crime syndicates is growing and the ability of countries to deliver justice "is not evolving as quickly as the criminals' skill at evading justice."

H1N1 hybrid virus found

FLU Scientists from Hong Kong say they have found a new flu virus in pigs that is a hybrid of H1N1 and swine influenza viruses. They say the discovery, which happened early this year, points to the need to keep a watchful eye on which flu viruses are infecting pig populations.

There's no sign of ongoing spread nor is there evidence the new virus was any more virulent than pandemic H1N1. But the scientists say the fact that this hybrid or reassortant virus has been found so soon suggests it is probably easy for the pandemic virus to swap genes with other pig viruses, a process which creates new viruses.

Israeli easing of blockade 'a good start'

GAZA An Israeli decision Thursday to ease its blockade of Gaza under intense international pressure could spell the beginning of the end of the chokehold that has hurt ordinary Gazans far more than their militant Hamas rulers.

The order to allow in all foods and some desperately needed construction materials brought calls for Israel to go much further and did little to quell the global outcry over the deadly flotilla raid that tried to bust the embargo.

Yet the announcement was an unmistakable sign of Israeli leaders' extreme discomfort with the damage the bloody May 31 flotilla raid has done to their country's international standing — and an indication the blockade's days may be numbered.

Israel made its decision after consultations with U.S. and European officials, and a week after U.S. President Barack Obama — whose relations with Israel's hard-line government have been rocky — called the embargo unsustainable and urged that it be scaled back dramatically.

'Cosmetic'

- With a naval blockade still in place and Israel giving no indication it will lift a ban on Gaza exports, Palestinians dismissed the move as cosmetic.

Mideast envoy Tony Blair, who helped work out the deal with Israel, called it a "good start."

In Gaza, the decision was met with skepticism and anger. "We want a real lifting of the siege, not window-dressing," said Hamas lawmaker Salah Bardawil.

The blockade, imposed three years ago after Hamas violently overran Gaza, has devastated the seaside territory's economy, costing tens of thousands of jobs, shuttering factories and preventing Gazans from rebuilding homes and buildings destroyed in Israel's bruising military offensive against Hamas last year, aimed at stopping daily rocket attacks.

Health concerns raised for American who sought to kill Osama bin Laden

MISSION An American who was detained in Pakistan while on a solo mission to kill Osama bin Laden has been moved to the capital city of Islamabad and will soon get dialysis for his failing kidneys, a family spokesman said Thursday.

Gary Brooks Faulkner, a 50-year-old construction worker from Colorado, was detained Sunday in northern Pakistan. Police say he had a pistol, a sword, night-vision equipment and other gear and claimed he was out to kill the al-Qaida leader.

Stuart Crespin, a spokesman for Faulkner's Colorado family, said they don't know when Faulkner will return to the U.S. Crespin said none of the family have immediate plans to go to Pakistan.

Faulkner's sister, Deanna M. Faulkner, has expressed concerns about her brother's health, saying he can't survive without dialysis.

Crespin said he didn't know whether Gary Faulkner had received any dialysis treatments in Pakistan.

Cameras covered up after public outcry

More than 100 counterterrorism cameras installed in heavily Muslim areas of Birmingham, England will be temporarily obscured with bags after local residents expressed outrage over the surveillance, the local safety board said Thursday.

The Safer Birmingham Partnership said that some 150 cameras had been installed in neighbourhoods such as Washwood Heath, where more than half the population is of Pakistani origin. The cameras were set up surreptitiously using money drawn from the government's counterterrorism program — and when residents found there was a huge outcry.

The Safer Birmingham Partnership's spokeswoman, who spoke anonymously in line with official policy, said it was law enforcement's prerogative to place the cameras there.

"That's not something we'd normally consult with the public about," she said.

She insisted that the cameras were aimed at more than just picking out potential terrorists, pointing out that they could also be used to fight burglaries. But she acknowledged that many believed that the cameras were only targeting Muslims.

"There's been a real high intensity of concern," she acknowledged.

As a result, the camera network would be temporarily suspended, and, for good measure, they would be covered in plastic sheaths.

News in brief

FREE SPEECH Iceland's parliament voted Thursday to create what supporters hope will be the world's strongest protections for free speech and journalism, passing measures intended to make the nation a safe haven for investigative reporting. The legislation, passed unanimously with only a single abstention, requires the government to draft regulations changing the law to strengthen journalistic source protection and shield reporters from foreign libel judgments. While the measures were mainly aimed at improving the nation's own transparency, Iceland hopes to lure Internet-based media and data centres that would use the country as a base of global free speech.

Trying to find a fare resolution

UrbanCompass

Pity the poor cabbie. It's not an easy gig. Basically, your job is to drive a bunch of drunks around town, which must make for a pleasant evening.

And once you've paid fees, car maintenance and gas, you're lucky to have enough left over for a chocolate bar. A little one.

Then there's traffic, which is bad enough when you don't have to spend 12 hours a day in it. I can't imagine what that's like, especially now that the mayor is busy, busy, creating a rat's maze of bike lanes to test your skill and patience.

Oh well, it gives you something to do when you're No. 27 in the queue waiting for a fare: Count the number of cyclists on the new Dunsmuir bike lane … one cyclist. Uh, two cyclists…

But now you have to watch for tricky government bureaucrats trying to catch you picking up fares out of your zone. Ask Gurmeet Singh of Guildford Cabs, who was heading back to the airport, where he's licensed to operate, and stopped to pick up a fare on Broadway and Granville at 11 p.m. Saturday, where he's not.

That was no fare; that was an enforcement officer for the Passenger Transportation Board, and here's a ticket for $1,150.

Are you nuts? $1,150!

The poor guy, in his defence, says the woman appeared to be alone on a dark night and looked as if she really needed a cab. You could make an argument that he should get the key to the city, not a $1,150 kick in the head. But the Passenger Transportation Board is not famous for its mercy.

Enforcement is understandable, but more and more, the authorities resort to trickery and subterfuge, and it's getting harder to tell the good guys from the bad guys. It's one thing when you're trying to apprehend sneaky homicidal gangsters, but why pick on ordinary, usually law-abiding people trying to make a living?

Especially cab drivers. How many times have you stood on the curb in the rain while a cabbie sails by, his dome light off and a look of genuine regret in his eye? Now you know why. Feel better?

Memo to the board: We all understand that a free-for-all may not be in everyone's best interests. Regulate the taxi business, ensure public safety, but do not go out of your way to increase the lack of trust on the street.

There's already plenty of that.

You mention that UFC 115 caused VGH to look like a MASH unit. Those injuries you mentioned have all occurred in all contact sports around the world. No, that would be ludicrous!

Leaders may have to resort to candles

The environmental showpiece of the G8 summit has lost some of its lustre. World leaders will bask in the glow of only five solar-powered street lights instead of the planned 15 when they arrive Huntsville, Ont., later this month.

The solar lamps are the G8 summit's "signature environmental project." They were supposed to line the pathways of a resort during the leaders' one-night stay.

But the lighting company says the tough terrain makes for slow going, and there isn't enough time left to get all 15 lights installed before the summit starts.

The G8 solar lights cost $207,900. The same money could buy almost 14,000 solar-powered Noma garden lights at Canadian Tire, which cost $15 each.

Bill seeks more mobile clarity

Hot on the heels of Apple announcing it will sell unlocked iPhones in Canada, an NDP MP has introduced a resolution that would force cellphone carriers to do the same with all the devices they sell.

Bruce Hyer, the MP for Thunder Bay-Superior North, on Thursday tabled Bill C-560, the cellphone freedom act. The bill proposes three rules: cellphone carriers would be required to notify customers at the point of purchase whether a phone is locked to work only on their network; they would have to remove such a lock free of charge at any point after the conclusion of the customer's service contract; and they would have to remove it if the customer does not enter into a contract within six months of buying the device up front.

"Mobile phone customers should have the freedom to choose whether they want to be locked into a company's cell network or not," Hyer said in a statement.

Canada's major wireless carriers typically sell mobile devices locked to their network on top of multi-year contracts. Some carriers have said this is to ensure that the devices work properly on their network, so they can support them if problems occur.

The federal government's recently introduced copyright reform legislation, Bill C-32, seeks to enshrine consumers' rights to unlock their mobile devices, an act that is already perfectly legal.

The lost time can mean the difference between someone's identity being used for fraud, and stopping a fraud before it occurs. # Boeing delays hamper expansion: Air Canada

Delays by Boeing in delivering its new 787 aircraft have limited Air Canada's ability to expand its international flight map, Canada's largest airline said Thursday.

Air Canada said it has been busy adding new destinations in the United States, Europe and Asia. However, it could have done more to add routes to India and elsewhere in Asia if it had the smaller, long-range Boeing 787.

"It opens up all these route opportunities that normally wouldn't be viable for us," said Ben Smith, Air Canada's chief commercial officer.

Mumbai in India and Changzhou in China, for example, don't generate enough traffic for the airline to be profitably serviced using the giant Boeing 777, while the smaller 767 has insufficient range.

"A 787 and all of a sudden it becomes interesting," Smith said.

The airline says increasing travel to international destinations, along with a push for higher fares in business class, are key drivers to sustainable profits.

"We only have 37 per cent of the market share for Canada international (travel), and we think we can do a lot better than that, so you'll see from us a lot more focus and effort in that area," Smith said.

It hopes to increasingly attract business travellers from the U.S. northeast to fly its growing service to Asia. THE CANADIAN PRESS

GOLF Mike Weir popped the ball out of the tangled rough, then watched it hit the green and fall in the hole for a birdie on No. 16 and sole possession of the U.S. Open lead.

Too bad momentum at Pebble Beach yesterday morning lasted about as long as the trip to the next tee box.

The 2003 Masters champion from Bright's Grove, Ont., followed his great shot with a bogey-bogey finish to wind up at 1-under 70. He was tied for the clubhouse lead with K.J. Choi, Ian Poulter and Rafael Cabrera-Bello after a good opening round that seemed as if it could have been better.

"You don't want to finish a round like that. It's never a good thing," Weir said. "But it wasn't because I was looking at the scoreboard and looking at where I am in the tournament. Because it's Thursday, and I just happened to hit a couple of poor shots."

Habs trade playoff hero

Canadiens send goaltender Halak to Blues for prospects

The Montreal Canadiens have made their goaltending choice — Carey Price stays and playoff hero Jaroslav Halak is off to the St. Louis Blues.

The Canadiens dealt Halak for two young forward prospects Thursday, even though the 25-year-old usurped Price as their starting goaltender late in the NHL season and played brilliantly in leading them to a berth in the Eastern Conference final.

In return, Montreal got centre Lars Eller, who may be ready to play next season, and rugged winger Ian Schultz from the junior Calgary Hitmen, who will likely need seasoning in the minors.

Canadiens general manager Pierre Gauthier called it a "big-picture decision," in which the team's scouts and managers opted for the long-term potential of the 22-year-old Price, the fifth overall draft pick of 2005, over the more immediate success from the 25-year-old Halak.

Halak was the Canadiens' player of the year in 2009-10, when he went 26-13-5 and was fifth among NHL goalies in save percentage at .940 and ninth in goals-against average at 2.40. Price was 13-20-5 with a 2.77 average and a .912 save percentage.

Both goaltenders are due to become restricted free agents July 1, with Halak holding the right to salary arbitration, but Gauthier didn't try to work out a deal once the team decided to make a trade.

He could have kept both, but Halak indicated in a conference call that would have left both unhappy.

"I think they did the best thing they could do — keep one goalie and give the other one a chance to play most of the season," Halak said from Slovakia. "It's best for everyone that I was dealt and can start on a new beginning."

St. Louis made the trade after informing veteran goalie Chris Mason they would not attempt to sign him to a new contract.

Halak earned $800,000 US last season and is due for a big raise.

Trade has Habs fans singing the Blues

- The trade was widely panned by Habs fans on Twitter and other websites within minutes of its completion. Most felt Carey Price should have been dealt and, if not, the team should have received more for the goalie who was the main reason Montreal upset Washington and Pittsburgh in the playoffs. A "shame," a "nightmare," and "April Fool's in June" were among the comments posted on one website. In the House of Commons in Ottawa, Liberal MP Justin Trudeau said, "What? Halak for two hockey sticks and a bag of magic beans?"

Lakers rally to beat Celtics for 2nd straight NBA title

(Lakers win series 4-3)

Celtics 79 Lakers 83

NBA The Los Angeles Lakers have won their 16th NBA championship, dramatically rallying from a fourth-quarter deficit to beat the Boston Celtics 83-79 Thursday night in Game 7 of the NBA finals.

Kobe Bryant scored 23 points despite shooting 6-of-24 while winning his fifth title with the Lakers, who repeated as NBA champions for the first time since winning three straight from 2000-02. Ron Artest added 20 points for the Lakers, who shot terribly while trailing for most of the first three quarters. Yet they reclaimed the lead midway through the fourth quarter and hung on with big shots from Pau Gasol and Artest.

With their fifth title in 11 seasons, the Lakers moved one championship behind Boston's 17 banners for the overall NBA lead.

Paul Pierce had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Celtics, who just couldn't finish the final quarter of a remarkable playoff run after a fourth-place finish in the Eastern Conference.

Elimination looms after loss to Mexico

GROUP A RESULTS

Mexico 2 France 0

Substitutes Javier Hernandez and Cuauhtemoc Blanco scored a goal in Mexico's 2-0 win over France at the World Cup Thursday, leaving the French on the verge of elimination from Group A.

Hernandez ran onto Rafael Marquez's pass and rounded goalkeeper Hugo Lloris before guiding the ball home in the 64th minute. Hernandez's grandfather, Tomas Balcazar, scored for Mexico against France in the 1954 World Cup, although that was a consolation goal.

Blanco converted a penalty in the 79th after Eric Abidal fouled Pablo Barrera, who came on for the injured Carlos Vela in the first half.

"We have to enjoy this win," Marquez said. "We have to go step-by-step and be calm."

Mexico is now level on points with Uruguay, both with four. France and South Africa both have one point but still have a chance to advance.

France has to beat South Africa and hope Mexico and Uruguay don't draw their match in Tuesday's final group games.

"We're not going to go out of this tournament without winning a match," France winger Florent Malouda said. "It's shameful to lose like that. It's a question of saving our honour."

France winger Mathieu Valbuena said the players were inconsolable after the defeat.

"There were no words spoken, there's nothing you can say after a defeat like that," Valbuena said. "Of course it hurts a lot. But we have to forget this defeat and think about the South Africa match."

GROUP B Gonzalo Higuain scored a hat trick in Argentina's 4-1 win over South Korea at the World Cup Thursday, a result that put the South Americans on the brink of qualifying for the next round from Group B.

Higuain scored his first goal in the 33rd minute with a far-post header after Nicolas Burdisso flicked on a cross from Maxi Rodriguez. He added two second-half goals — in the 76th and 80th minutes — to put the result beyond doubt.

Argentina had gone ahead 1-0 in the 17th when Park Chu-young deflected a free kick off the foot of Lionel Messi into his own net.

Running with werewolf pack

Vancouver actor Houseman reprises role in Eclipse

Vancouver-based Tyson Houseman plays a key member of the werewolf pack in The Twilight Saga: Eclipse.

LINA TOYODA
for Metro Canada

Landing your first acting role in a major motion picture, let alone a box office hit, is a rare occurrence that takes perhaps just the right alignment of skill, timing and a few lucky stars.

But that's exactly how things panned out for 20-year-old Canadian actor Tyson Houseman, who caught a break and was cast as Quil Ateara in the teen vampire phenomenon known as The Twilight Saga.

Houseman says he kind of just fell into acting.

"To be completely honest, I was terrified of the idea of acting but whenever I was actually doing it, I was enjoying myself so much. I could get so comfortable being on stage," says Houseman.

"It was just the anticipation building up to it that completely scared the heck out of me. I think one day I realized I really enjoyed that adrenaline that I got from that fear."

The Edmonton native plays one of the boys of the wolf pack and first appears in New Moon, the second of four parts in the series.

He will reprise his role in the third — and highly anticipated — Eclipse, set for worldwide release at the end of the month.

He says his character has a much bigger role in Eclipse and "imprints" on a female in the film, a wolf pack ritual and rite of passage, something along the lines of "love at first sight" and claiming a future mate.

Opportunity knocked soon after he made the move to Vancouver to pursue an acting career after graduating high school.

"About four months into living in Vancouver I found this open casting call on Craigslist and they were looking for people who had a Native American background who were between the ages of 15 and 25 and I was like, 'Yeah I fit that description so why not go check it out.'"

Only actors of native descent were cast for members of the wolf pack and Houseman says he feels lucky to have fallen into a character that was similar enough to himself that he could easily relate to.

Toy Story 3 raising the sequel bar

Franchise breaks new ground in a final installment that builds on past, without relying on old gags

Toy Story 3
Director: Lee Unkrich
Stars: Tom Hanks, Tim Allen, Ned Beatty
Classification: G
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕⊕½

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Buzz Lightyear and Woody get a new lease on life in Toy Story 3.

A number after a film's title is usually cause for worry, as sequels aren't always the most artistically inspired creations. The best sequels, in fact, tend to eschew the numbers altogether (like The Dark Knight, The Empire Strikes Back and Aliens, for example).

But with the Toy Story franchise, that cause for concern is far from warranted.

Once again, the folks at Pixar have returned to the characters of their first movie, now 15 years past, and come up with an inspired, intelligent and entertaining film expertly straddling the line between kids and adults entertainment.

The latest — and apparently final — instalment finds Woody (Tom Hanks), Buzz Lightyear (Tim Allen) and the rest of the familiar toys of the first two films fretting over their owner Andy's impending departure to college.

After becoming convinced they're headed for the trash heap, the toys mount an escape that lands them in the apparent Shangri-La of a local daycare centre, where the toy world is overseen by a deceivingly cuddly old teddy bear (Ned Beatty). While kids will certainly enjoy the movie, don't be surprised to find most of the adult audience needing tissues.

The only real criticism of the movie is that, like almost everything else being released by a major studio this year, it's available in 3-D.

Don't bother. The visuals are spectacular enough without it, and the technology doesn't add enough to warrant the higher ticket price.

Bleak Winter's Bone cuts deep

Winter's Bone
Director: Debra Granik
Stars: Jennifer Lawrence
Classification: 14A
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕⊕

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Jennifer Lawrence's breakout performance lifts Winter's Bone.

Playing the rural backwoods of America as alien setting isn't particularly difficult, but creating that environment without condescending or mocking its inhabitants is a rare feat.

That's exactly what director Debra Granik has accomplished with Winter's Bone, a gritty redneck noir where the setting is a vital character.

Audiences are thrust into a world of moonshine, rusty trucks, and basement methamphetamine operations that feels completely genuine, populated by characters who might not necessarily be likable, but are at least believable.

The film centres on the rather extraordinary performance of 18-year-old actress Jennifer Lawrence.

She plays a young woman whose life is in disarray before the crime/mystery plot kicks in.

Despite still being school age herself, she is raising her brother and sister with no help from her invalid mother or low level criminal father who is perpetually on the run from the police.

When her father disappears and is presumed dead she is forced to track down those responsible to prove his death and keep the family home — a journey that leads her down a dark road into the underbelly of a depressed community. The film is almost unrelentingly bleak with little chance of a happy ending filled with hugs and kisses.

Debra Granik does a fantastic job of blending her suspense-driven plot with an almost anthropological study of the impoverished Ozarks mountain community (all of the locations were presented as found and one of the child actors actually lives in the home in which the film was shot).

It's a disturbing portrait of a distinct culture that admirably never delves into easy caricature.

Granik is aided by a spectacular cast including the aforementioned Lawrence in a breakout performance and the underrated John Hawks (Deadwood) in a role that could have easily gone to a traditional heavy threatening actor, but plays far more effectively with his scrawny physique and tortured eyes.

Winter's Bone is a difficult film to watch at times, but a rewarding one that offers a window in a world rarely seen on the big screen.

Hanks eyed for Cloud Atlas
Tom Hanks is being sought for the lead role in Cloud Atlas. The film, based on David Mitchell's acclaimed novel, will be shot in spring 2011. EMPIREONLINE.COM

Stick to the comic book

Jonah Hex

Director: Jimmy Hayward
Stars: Josh Brolin, Megan Fox, John Malkovich
Classification: 14A
Rating: ⊕

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

The best part of Jonah Hex — where the movie really becomes fun — is during a brief sequence at the beginning when a bulk of backstory for Hex (Josh Brolin) is told using animation similar to the comic book on which the movie is based.

That's a really long way of saying go read the comic, and skip this loud, clumsy super-western.

The story follows Hex, who developed mystical powers after some Native Americans saved him from the grave, enlisted by President Ulysses S. Grant (Aidan Quinn) to stop Quentin Turnbull (John Malkovich), a former Confederate officer who's hilariously presented as the country's first terrorist.

As lots of dialogue and unnecessary narration reminds us, the mission's personal for Hex, since Turnbull killed his wife and son.

Lots of time and effort was put into getting the massive scars covering half of Hex's face right, which must be why so much of Brolin's screen time is spent in close-ups shot to highlight it.

Perhaps they should've spent a bit more time and effort on making sure he could speak clearly through all the prosthetic work.

At one point, Hex dispatches a bad guy and delivers what we have to assume is a witty one-liner. The problem is it's unintelligible.

Josh Brolin plays the title character in Jonah Hex.

The real tragedy is the amount of acting talent involved, including Brolin, Malkovich and Michael Fassbender (a breakout in Inglorious Basterds).

Megan Fox can't really be faulted, as she's barely in the movie and has very little to do but scowl and heave her chest when she is there.

The cast is definitely having fun with the material, but that fun doesn't extend to the audience, unfortunately.

Year of the Carnivore aims for the absurd in sexual interplay.

Lighter side of sex unsatisfying

Year of the Carnivore

Director: Sook-Yin Lee
Stars: Cristin Miloti
Classification: STC
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕

CHRIS ALEXANDER
for Metro Canada

Year of the Carnivore is a film about a woman having lots and lots of weird, uninhibited sex.

Except it's also one of those movies where the carnal-questing participants get it on while wearing their underpants.

In other words, it's a picture caught in erotic limbo — raunchy and outrageous in theory, but not in practice.

It's a good thing then that Canadian multimedia personality Sook-Yin Lee's directorial debut (which she also wrote) has heart and charm to spare, even if it cops out on the copulation.

Carnivore charts the sticky misadventures of sweet faced geek-girl Sammy (winningly played by Cristin Miloti) who, after flubbing an impromptu encounter with the rock and rolling love of her life, vows to mount any and all who cross her horny path.

But her mission is one of erotic enlightenment, not hormonal sating voracity.

Lee — a former pop star, MuchMusic VJ and radio DJ — hit her apex of notoriety with John Cameron Mitchell's 2005 comedy Shortbus, in which she had real, unsimulated sex graphically on camera.

Year of the Carnivore has much in common with that film's tone: it's light, breezy, plays much of its intercourse for absurd laughs and has a core of human truth.

It's also filled wall to wall with jangly Canadian indie pop music that carries the silliness along and make it all rather painless and pleasant.

But a movie featuring hot threesomes, lesbian sex, straight sex and orgasmic mothers who lactate in ecstasy should push its visual envelope a little bit farther that Lee does.

Portrait of artist as young man seen through various lenses

The Socalled Movie

Director: Gary Beitel
Classification: STC
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW Given the versatility of the Montreal-based singer/rapper/musical polymath Josh "Socalled" Dolgin, it's appropriate that a documentary about his life and art doesn't follow a straight line.

A crowd-pleasing hit at this year's Hot Docs festival, The Socalled Movie approaches its subject from a variety of different angles, splitting its running time into 18 segments that, taken together, detail how a lonely kid from rural Quebec developed into a vanguard artist blending hip-hop and klezmer rhythms for an appreciative international audience.

Director Gary Beitel — Dolgin's former filmmaking instructor at McGill — has cited Francois Girard's Thirty-Two Short Films About Glenn Gould as a formal influence, but that was a film about an authentic genius, rather than a burgeoning young talent.

The Socalled Movie is directed by Gary Beitel.

Not that Dolgin is straining for gravitas here: for all his professional confidence — necessary when you're a nerdy looking dude dropping multi-lingual rhymes in nightclubs — the musician radiates modesty in the interview segments.

He speaks openly about the contradictions of being an atheistic, openly gay Jewish man in total thrall to Yiddish culture and also about the cultivation of his cosmopolitan musical aesthetic.

He speaks openly about the contradictions of being an atheistic, openly gay Jewish man in total thrall to Yiddish culture, and also about the cultivation of his cosmopolitan musical aesthetic.

The performance footage, gleaned from concerts from around the world, is mostly engaging, but the highlight is a segment detailing the creation and execution of the innovative, eye-popping music video for the catchy single You Are Never Alone.

Cage, Kidman join Trespass team

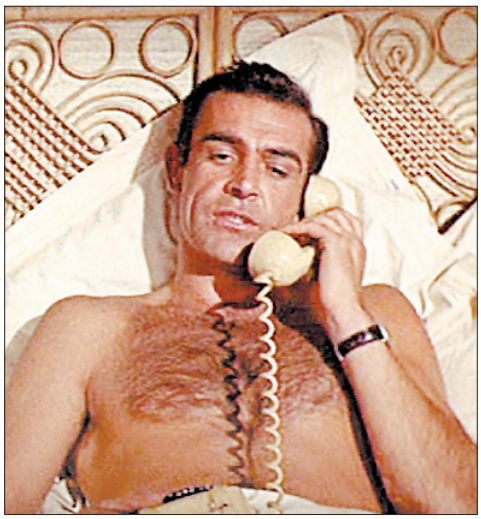
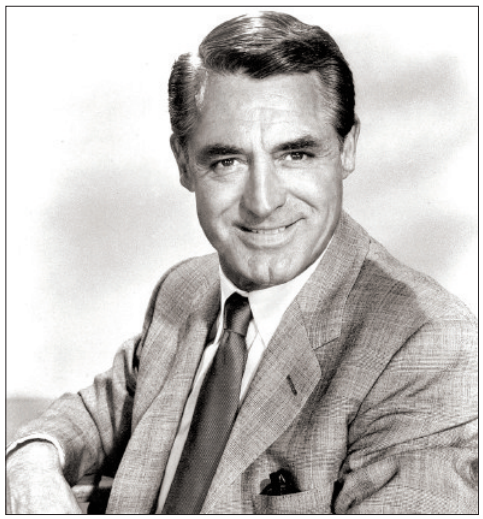
Nicolas Cage is teaming up with Nicole Kidman for Joel Schumacher's next film Trespass. The action thriller revolves around the aftermath of a home invasion. IMDB.COM





Cary Grant, right, and not Sean Connery, was author Ian Fleming's first choice to play James Bond on film.

There goes first choice

The first glimpse of Josh Brolin as scarred comic book bounty hunter Jonah Hex reveals it is a role he was born to play. His natural bad boy swagger shines through the character's heavy make up but Brolin wasn't the first choice to play the character, or even the second. As is so often the case in Hollywood many other actors were first considered for the part.

California surf boy Matthew McConaughey was approached, as was indie film darling Emile Hirsch.

Thomas Jane even went as far as submitting photos in full Jonah Hex drag, scars and all.

In the end, Brolin brought that extra something special that made the role his, and joined a long list of actors who weren't the first choice to headline big movies.

Many actors have played James Bond but a recent JamesBondwiki.com poll anoints Sean Connery as the two-to-one people's favourite.

Guess what? He wasn't the first choice.

Author Ian Fleming partially modelled the Bond character on Cary Grant, so the suave actor was top-of-the-list when the first Bond film, Dr. No, was cast. Grant, however, sent his regrets, saying he was too old to play the spy.

When Connery was cast, the writer was less than pleased.

"He's not exactly what I had in mind," said Fleming, who felt Connery was too "unrefined" for the role. He later changed his mind and Connery went on to play Bond in six movies.

Connery was the first choice to play Gandalf in The Lord of the Rings series but said no.

"I didn't understand the script when they sent it to me," he said. "Bobbits? Hobbits?"

New Line apparently wanted him so badly they offered him a huge chunk of the of worldwide box office receipts. That "no" cost him almost $400 million.

Many other movies have "settled" for second choices. Pretty Woman director Garry Marshall courted Molly Ringwald and Daryl Hannah, who said no because she felt it denigrated women, before casting Julia Roberts.

Can you imagine The Matrix without Keanu Reeves? Apparently the Wachowski Brothers could as they offered the role of Neo to Will Smith first. Smith declined, opting to make the box office disaster Wild Wild West instead, but says he has no regrets.

"I would have absolutely messed up The Matrix. At that point I wasn't smart enough as an actor to let the movie be — whereas Keanu was."

The A-Team

REVIEW As catchphrases go, "I love it when a plan comes together" is a particular 1980s standout. But fans of the TV series The A-Team might find the new big-screen adaptation a little frustrating. While Hannibal (Liam Neeson, stepping into George Peppard's humidor) talks incessantly about plans and the importance of having them and executing them, he never actually utters the famous line. And it's not like he doesn't have the opportunity, as this action movie has an overabundance of talk. It's too much plan, and not enough coming together.

Get Him to the Greek

●●●½

REVIEW Just as comedy sage Judd Apatow made stars out of unlikely actors Seth Rogen and Jason Segel with respective hits, Get Him to the Greek aims to turn Russell Brand and plumpy Jonah Hill into Hollywood's latest A-listers. And it may just do it. A spin-off to the 2008 Apatow-produced hit Forgetting Sarah Marshall, this tale about a record executive hopeful named Aaron (Hill) and his lascivious, out-of-control rock 'n' roll charge (Brand, reviving Marshall's Aldous Snow character) anchors gross-out gags by giving the bedlam a heart. When eager Aaron is given a big corporate opportunity to escort the relapsing rocker to America for a comeback concert at Hollywood's Greek Theatre, the young exec is dragged into Snow's late-night binges, spontaneous sidetrips and the type of rabid partying that may recall lost memories from last summer's surprise hit The Hangover.

The Karate Kid

●●●½

REVIEW To anyone alive in the 1980s, the Karate Kid legend is a familiar one. In this reboot, Jaden Smith (son of Will and Jada) stars in the role Ralph Macchio made a Reagan era icon. The story's been freshened by a move to Beijing but the filmmakers wisely kept the underdog coming-of-age tale front and centre. Smith is the film's centerpiece. He's clearly still a novice, but has inherited the best bits of his mother and father's collective gene pools (he got his mother's ears! Yay!) and has charisma to burn. He's not going to win an Academy Award for this one, but he capably carries a great deal of the movie on his 12-year-old back. He's ably assisted by co-star Jackie Chan, who brings warmth and personality to Mr. Han.

Behind the scenes at the MMVAs

KEITH CARMEN
for Metro Canada

The MuchMusic Video Awards are ready to take over Toronto this weekend. But have you ever wondered what it takes to bring viewers one evening of spectacular musical revelry? How about a year's worth of blood, sweat, tears, revised schedules, meetings, permits and more headaches than a migraine convention.

Such are the lives of Sheila Sullivan and Neil Staite, MMVA organizers for the past decade. While we're gawking at co-host Miley Cyrus and watching performances by Ke$ha, Drake and Justin Bieber, this duo is breathing sighs of relief at seeing the past 12 months come to fruition.

In fact, before the lights cooled down after last year's MMVAs, Sullivan and Staite were already organizing this successor, attaining artists, sourcing local equipment suppliers, budgeting staff, re-routing streetcars and garnering the inevitable permits/policing an event of such magnitude necessitates.

"Planning starts the day after the MMVAs," notes Sullivan in the midst of a dazzling dance of riggers, materials and props that overtake the parking lot at MuchMusic. "We immediately hold a postmortem on last year's show, seeing what worked, what didn't and how we can make things even better next year."

Passersby begin to see the fruits of such labour four weeks before the event looms as the asphalt becomes abuzz with activity. This year's theme: each stage resembles various culinary gadgetry.

"That overhang one's the 'George Foreman,'" Sullivan smiles, pointing to the largest of three stages. "The enclosed one is 'The Microwave,' the one at floor level here is 'The Griddle' and if you look overhead, that platform jutting out is 'The Spatula.'"

Turning attention to two more aspects, Staite notes that the popular red carpet ceremony has been relocated to MuchMusic's side entrance in order to allow for yet another stage to overtake the infamous intersection at Queen and John streets.

Moreover, in order to ensure those at home aren't left out, VJ Liz Trinnear will host the online-exclusive backstage Digital Lounge, she quips will "have a bit of everything. I'll be talking to bands on-camera, blogging, tweeting, texting and on my phone."

Of course, the means more technical strategizing. At that, gazing across the dozens of bodies, tonnes of rigging, cables, lights and massive machinery, one is mystified at how the MMVAs come together with perceived ease.

"It's a big chess game requiring lots of meetings to make sure that we do everything in the correct order," Staite sighs. "We have pages and pages of plans … that are still changing up to the second the show starts. But once it does, it's worth it."

Personal struggles fuel McLachlan album

For the past seven years, Sarah McLachlan has largely remained silent while her personal life turned public and she sought to endure the breakup of her marriage.

This week marks the release of Laws of Illusion, the Vancouver-based songstress' first album of new material since 2003's Afterglow.

And if it seems as though the lovelorn lyrics on the oft-wrenching record were inspired by real-life events, it's because they pretty much were.

McLachlan says her personal struggles fuelled her work — once she got around to dealing with them directly.

"There's creative licence, but certainly, the emotional rollercoaster of the past couple years played heavily," McLachlan said in a telephone interview.

"I find it very difficult to write, typically, when I'm happy. It's a fleeting, lighthearted experience and you don't want to analyze it because I'm sure you'll find something wrong with it if you look hard enough.

"Whereas when you're sad, or heartbroken, or angry, that's meaty, visceral stuff. You can really sink your teeth into it. And there's a lot of good juicy bits to grab hold of and dissect and figure out."

McLachlan split with drummer Ashwin Sood, her husband of 11 years, two years ago. They have two daughters: eight-year-old India and Taja, who turns three next week.

As she tried to recover and take care of two children as a newly single mother, McLachlan didn't find herself immediately compelled to sit down and write about the pain she was going through.

"My world sort of fell apart, and I just had to work to figure out what the heck I was going to do next," she said.

"You know, I don't tend to write when I'm in the thick of the emotional angst.

"There's creative licence, but certainly, the emotional rollercoaster of the past couple years played heavily"
Sarah McLachlan

"It's a lot easier for me to do it after the fact, when I have a little more objectivity."

Yet, once the 42-year-old began writing — which she did, in earnest, in March of last year — she found that the ideas flowed.

Opening track Awakenings is a distorted rush, with ear-candy electronics adding texture to a nakedly emotional rant.

The clatter mostly fades out in time for McLachlan's key final pronouncement: "I'm not the girl I was but what have I become?/I'm not so willing anymore to bend/Still pleasing and conceding/But I'm not gonna lose myself again."

"It opens the record for a reason for me," McLachlan says of the track. "It's meant to sort of encompass the mood of what's to come."

McLachlan professes to have a tough time analyzing her own music, even though she's able to describe the feelings behind each song more clearly and directly than most artists.

So when she's asked how the past years - so fraught with personal turmoil - have changed her, she pauses.

"God, I hope I'm a little bit wiser," she says. "I certainly feel like I've been through the wringer the past couple years. And I feel like, all these experiences, good and bad, are where we grow - especially the hard times. That's where you find out what you're really made of."

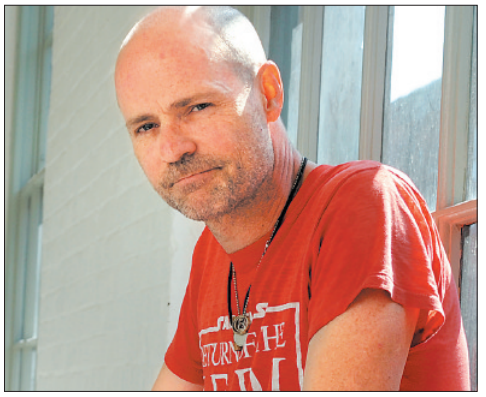
Laws of Illusion is the first new album in seven years from Vancouver-based songstress Sarah McLachlan.



Gord Downie's new album is called The Grand Bounce.

Interesting releases for summer 2010

SoundCheck

Now that the first day of summer is almost here (7:28 a.m. on Monday!), it's time to look at some releases that could prove interesting.

Gord Downie

The Grand Bounce (Out now): Easily the best thing he's done outside of the Tragically Hip. Unabashedly Canadian and summery, this is a CD that should be played around a lot of campfires this summer.

Foals

Total Life Forever (Out Now): Wondering about the song in the promo for season seven of Entourage? It's Spanish Sahara from their second album.

Sleigh Bells

Treats (Out Now): An interesting combination of noise and pop that sold more than 21,000 albums through iTunes in just three weeks.

Stone Temple Pilots

S/T (Out Now): Loaded with hooks and that STP guitar crunch, this record was a real pleasant surprise. Maybe this second act is for real.

Two Door Cinema Club

Tourist History (Out now): Imagine a smoother sounding Franz Ferdinand and from Northern Ireland instead of Scotland. When I first heard the single I Can Talk, it stayed in my head for days.

Stars

The Five Ghosts (Tuesday): One of the prettiest records I've heard so far this year comes from this Montreal band and Broken Social Scene associates. Their pre-release cross-Canada club tour in May sold out immediately — which tells you something about the anticipation for this CD.

Delphic

Acolyte (June 29): I've been raving about the smooth, dance-y indie-tronica from these Manchester guys for almost a year now. Songs like Doubt and Counterpoint deserve to be heard by as many people as possible.

Arcade Fire

The Suburbs (Aug. 3): Easily one of the most anticipated albums of the year, indie or major. Did I mention they're playing Madison Square Garden this summer?

Disturbed

Asylum (August): The fifth album from this Chicago band has already been preceded by a single called Another Way to Die. Singer David Draiman: "No songs about puppy dogs or rainbows here."

Filter

The Trouble with Angels (August): If the lead single The Inevitable Relapse is any indication Richard Patrick may have regained the mojo that he lost sometime in the late 90s.

Brandon Flowers

Flamingo (September): The Killers front dude — an incurable workaholic, apparently — has a solo album coming this fall while the rest of the band takes a break. Listen for a lead single called Crossfire.

Metro's 7th Heaven: Metro taps what's hot right now

1 Candace Bushnell

BOOKS Candace Bushnell has more tales of sex and the city, if not Sex And The City. The best-selling author is set to write two more novels, The Associated Press reports. Grand Central Publishing said Wednesday the first is about a romantic triangle and is coming out in 2012. It'll be titled The Two Mrs. Stones.

2 Drake

CELEBRITY It seems Canadian male singers are crowd-control hazards. Justin Beiber was causing commotions during his recent trips down under, and now Drake is doing the same. A recent New York City free concert by the rapper had to be cancelled after twice as many people than expected showed up.

3 Janelle Monae

MUSIC We're really digging Janelle Monae's whole aesthetic and vibe. The Atlanta-based artist — and OutKast protégée — released her highly anticipated debut, The ArchAndroid, last month to critical raves. Check out the Youtube video she released, introducing fans to Metropolis, the futuristic world that occupies her album.

4 Father's Day

HOLIDAY Still haven't found that perfect gift for dad — or just forget about the holiday altogether? Check out Sears' Retreat solid colour jacquard camp shirt ($29.99) as a possibility. It's great for an afternoon at the beach, pool or golf course, and stylish enough for a trip to the office.

5 Monopoly

GAMES The venerable business-minded board game is celebrating its 75th anniversary by releasing a Canadian edition. On Tuesday, the company will reveal what 22 Canadian cities will be featured in the new version of the game. Bye bye Baltic Ave.

6 Absolut Berry Açai

A desperate ploy?

FOR THE LOVE OF ALL THAT IS HOLY: STOP FEEDING THE BEAST! Reality stars Heidi Montag and Spencer Pratt are faking it when it comes to their breakup, sources insist to Page Six. Their latest ploy reportedly involves a story about Montag having an affair with Cougar Zank, a former Marine turned bodyguard and friend of Pratt. "Heidi and Spencer are trying to play out a fake reality show in the press and get paid along the way," a source says. "They've been approaching magazines and websites to buy the fake story of Zank having an affair with Heidi. They've been asking for $100,000. But no one is interested as they don't sell magazines." # American DUI

THOSE ADORABLE KIDS HAVE ALL TURNED OUT SO WELL, HAVEN'T THEY? It seems Chris Klein was more than just a little intoxicated when he was arrested for driving under the influence earlier this week. The actor's blood alcohol tested at .20 during a Breathalyzer test, sources tell TMZ. The legal limit in California is .08. The arrest marks Klein's second DUI in six years. The American Pie star also reportedly had a dog with him in the car, which was later retrieved by a friend, according to the website.

Klein was arrested early Wednesday on suspicion of drunken driving after he was spotted weaving across lanes on a Southern California highway, authorities said.

A request for comment was left with Klein's agent and his manager.

Report: Jackson doc never received proper medical gear

WHAT'S THAT OLD SAYING ABOUT A CARPENTER BLAMING HIS TOOLS? Michael Jackson's doctor requested but never received lifesaving gear from the concert promoter organizing the singer's London shows, documents obtained by The Associated Press show.

Emails and a proposed contract detailing Dr. Conrad Murray's negotiations with concert promoter AEG Live reveal the requests for a heart resuscitation unit and a medical assistant.

Neither apparently was in place when Jackson died last June 25 after Murray administered a mixture of sedatives, including the anesthetic propofol, in an attempt to get the chronic insomniac to sleep.

Propofol is extremely powerful and is usually administered only in medical settings with emergency equipment on hand. Patients are normally constantly monitored.

Murray was alone when he gave the drugs to Jackson. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Metro Recipe of the Day

Harvest Pork Apple Pie

INGREDIENTS:

500 g lean ground pork
1 onion, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup chicken broth
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp ground sage
1/8 tsp cayenne pepper
2 store-bought pie crusts
2 tart apples, peeled and thinly sliced
2 tbsp sugar
1/4 tsp ground allspice
1% milk

METHOD:

1. Preheat oven to 400°F (200°C). In large skillet, cook ground pork, onion and celery until meat is no longer pink; Drain. Stir in bread crumbs, chicken broth, salt, sage and cayenne pepper.

2. Line 23 cm pie plate with 1 pie crust; trim even with edge. Spoon meat mixture into pie plate. In medium-size bowl, combine apples, sugar, and allspice. Spoon over meat mixture.

3. Place remaining pie crust over apple mixture. Trim crust to 1/2 inch beyond edge of plate. Fold under bottom crust and crimp edge. Cut slits in top crust. Brush with milk. Bake 35 to 40 minutes or until golden. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

sallybrompton.com For Sally's expanded daily and weekend horoscopes, visit metronews.ca

ARIES
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
You may be tempted to turn your back and walk away from your responsibilities but you know it's not the right thing to do.

TAURUS
APRIL 21-MAY 21
At home and at work you will act in ways that are out of character today, but no harm will come of it so long as you keep telling yourself it's all a game.

GEMINI
MAY 22-JUNE 21
Will a certain situation turn out for the best? Who knows. All you can do is go with the flow and hope that it all comes right in the end.

CANCER
JUNE 22-JULY 22
Events beyond your control will make you somewhat nervous today but the planets indicate you won't be affected.

LEO
JULY 23-AUG 23
Throw caution to the wind and do something outrageous. You have never been the sort to hold back, verbally or physically.

VIRGO
AUG 24-SEPT 22
You won't find it easy to keep your feelings under control today. A few days hence you will look back and wonder what got into you.

LIBRA
SEPT 23-OCT 23
Your thoughts seem to be all over the place at the moment and you need to get them back under control.

SCORPIO
OCT 24-NOV 22
The current cosmic picture warns you need to be more direct where money matters and business negotiations are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS
NOV 23-DEC 21
Something you thought would take weeks to accomplish can be done in a matter of days, IF you start now and IF you refuse to let other things distract you.

CAPRICORN
DEC 22-JAN 20
Push yourself forward. Make a name for yourself. What others say cannot be done is exactly what you will be doing, and doing well, over the next 24 hours.

AQUARIUS
JAN 21-FEB 18
Usually it's you who shakes things up and disturbs the status quo, but what happens today will be a reminder you cannot take life for granted.

PISCES
FEB 19-MARCH 20
Go with your instincts today and don't worry if you find yourself at odds with those around you.
